The Daily Courant.

Wednesday, March 10. 1708.

London, March 16.
Yesterday arriv'd the Mail of Friday last from Holland.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated March 16.

Madrid, February 28.

THIS reported, that at the Request of the Council, the King will not make the Campaign this Year. The Marquis de Bay has sent Advice by a Courier; that he designs by the 9th or 10th of March to put the Army he commands in Motion against the Portuguese, who are pretty strong on their Frontiers.

Pampelona, March 2. All the French Forces that are arriv'd in Navarre, are on the March towards the Frontiers of Catalonia. Above 30000 Sacks of Bread Corn and Oats, have within a short time been sent out of these Parts to Arragon, for subsisting our Troops. They write from Lerida, that the Catalonians are drawing all their Forces towards Cardona and Monblanc, to observe the Troops of the two Crowns. The Arragonians having petition'd King Philip, that during the Campaign their Towns may be Garrison'd by Spaniards, not by French, their Request is granted.

Bayone, March 3. The 1st Instant the Duke of Orleans proceeded from hence on his Journey to Madrid. During his Royal Highness's Stay of two Days here, he was often with the Queen Dowager of Spain, and made her Presents of great Value. This Week Planks, Anchors, Ropes, and other Materials for Bridges, were in great Quantity sent from hence for Arragon.

From the Leyden Gazette, dated March 16.

Turin, Feb. 22. The Duke of Savoy applies himself wholly to making Preparations for an early and vigorous Campaign. All the Magazines for our Frontier-Places are filling with all Diligence; 3000 Bombs of very large Size are getting ready in our Arsenal: And his Royal Highness's Troops are Order'd to be in a Readiness to march out of their Winter-Quarters the 16th of next Month, to form a Camp between this City and Pignerol. 'Tis rumour'd that the first Enterprize will be to attack the strong Post of Perouse. Besides the large and strong Outworks made before the New Gate of this City, Notice was given the 17th Instant, that those who would undertake the Work of some new Fortifications design'd to be made about the Half-Moons that cover the Wall of the Citadel, should repair to the Director of those Works. So that this City will be fortify'd to the utmost Perfection and Strength. M. Rhebinder, Commandant-General of his Royal Highness's Forces, having taken a careful View of all the Towns and Places of this Country, is gone to view the Posts on our Frontiers of which the Enemy may attempt to get Possession, particularly the Eminencies about Suza, where the Outworks of the Forts Brunette and Catinat are enlarging. General Rhebinder is raising a Regiment of Foot, that is to be call'd by his Name. M. de Mellarede is return'd from the Court of Vienna.

Milan, Feb. 25. General Visconti who commads in this State during the Absence of Prince Eugene, took a Review the 23d Instant in the Square before our Citadel, of 2 new-rais'd Regiments of Infantry of 400 Men each: and yesterday sent one of them to Pavia, the other to Valenza. The other Levies that are making in this Country for King Charles III, go on with great Success. The Palatine Horse, and other Troops, hold themselves ready to march to the Coast of Genoa, whenever they shall be commanded, to embark for Catalonia. The Duke of Savoy has desir'd earnestly, that the Imperial Troops which are in Winter-Quarters in the Mantuan and Parts adjacent, may be in Piemont by the Middle of next Month.

Letters from Trent of the 4th of March, say there had pass'd that way 300 Recruits for the Imperial Regiment of Bagni; and that by the 8th or 9th they expected there 350 Recruits for the Regiment of Osnabrug, and others for that of Regal.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated March 15.

Leghorne, Feb. 24. Last Saturday arriv'd here 2 English Men of War from Barcelona. By whom 'tis advis'd, that the Fleet which arriv'd there the 28th past with the Land-Forces from Vado, sail'd agen for Lisbon the 2d Instant, having on board the Earl of Gallway, the Marquis das Minas, several English and Portuguese Officers, and 1200 dismounted Portuguese Horse: That King Charles III was very desirous the Fleet should go back to the Coast of Genoa, to fetch further Succours from thence; but the Commadore excus'd himself, having express Orders to sail to Portugal: That the Design on the Island of Sardinia, was frustrated by contrary Winds: And that 'twas thought the Enemy would open the Campaign with the Siege of Girone.

Genoa, Feb. 25. The Count de Cifuentes, who is arriv'd at Leghorn from Barcelona, is gone on to Rome, to carry to Cardinal Grimani Patents from King Charles III, who has made him a Grandee of Spain and Viceroy of Naples. The Prince d'Elboeuf, who arriv'd with him, is gone to Naples, with Orders ('tis said) from King Charles to forward the Preparations for reducing Sicily and afterwards Sardinia to his Obedience.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated March 16.

Dusseldorp, March 9. We have receiv'd certain Advice, that the Troops of our Elector which are arriv'd at Barcelona, were diminish'd but 50 Men in their tedious and rough Voyage thither.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated March 17:

Paris, March 12. When the King bid adieu to the pretended Prince of Wales on Monday last at St. Germains, and wish'd him a good Voyage, he gave him a Sword enrich'd with Diamonds to the Value of 50000 Livres, and desir'd him to bear always in Mind that 'twas a French Sword. The pretended Prince answer'd, that if he should have the good Forune to win Possession of the Throne of his Ancestors, he would not content himself with returning Thanks to his Majesty by Letters and Ambassadors, but would shew his Gratitude by Effects. The said Prince did not go the next Day to Versailles, as has been reported, the King desiring him to let that be their parting Farewell. The Dauphin and the other Princes of the Blood were also at St. Germains, to wish him Success: His Sister being Sick of the Measels, he did not speak with her, but writ her a Letter. He has taken on him the Name of the Chevalier de St. George, till he arrive in Scotland.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated March 16.

Paris, Mar. 12. Yesterday Morning arriv'd at Court an Express from the C. de Forbin, in 18 Hours from Dunkirk: Whereupon a great Council was held, and he was dispatch'd back agen in the Afternoon with new Instructions. This Express reported, that when he came from Dunkirk, 30 Frigates, Capers and other arm'd Vessels, besides the large Men of War, were ready to take in the Troops, Ammunition, &c. To Morrow the King goes to Marli, to take a Review the next Day of the Troops of his Houshold. The 14th the Dauphin will go to Anet, where he will be entertaind 8 Days by the Duke of Vendome; after which the latter will come to Court to receive his Last Instructions from the King, and set out the Beginning of the next Month for Lisle. P. S. They write from Court, that the King receiv'd another Express last Night from Dunkirk, advising that for weighty Reasons the Imbarkation of the Troops was put off to the 13th.

Hague,

Hague, March 16. 'All the Discourse here is of 'the Enemy's Preparations at Dunkirk. Those who 'understand maritime Affairs, are of Opinion, that 'their Fleet cannot put out of that Port till the Sea 'is swell'd by the Spring-Tide the 20th or 21st In-'stant. For the very same Reason, the Men of 'War fitted out at Amsterdam, and which are all 'compleatly ready, must wait till the same Time 'before they can come over the Pampus to get out 'of the Texel. The Ships of War of the other 'Chambers of Admiralty of this State, are almost 'all ready to put to Sea. Those Admiralties, out 'of Earnestness to get the Ships well mann'd with 'all Diligence, caus'd Drums to beat up, in this 'Place as well as others, for Seamen: A thing that 'has not been done in many Years before. The 'Envoy of Savoy having receiv'd Letters Yesterday 'from Turin, has waited on the States to solicit 'Subsidies; and has assur'd them, that his Royal 'Highness will draw his Forces together by the 16th 'or 17th of this Month in a Camp mark'd out near 'Pignerol; in Order to give the Enemy a Diversion. 'According to the Advices from Vienna, Prince Eu-'gene will be here in a Fortnight or 3 Weeks. Some 'Letters from France, and others from the Nether-'lands, advise, that the pretended Prince of Wales 'is fallen ill of the Meazels or Small Pox.

Portsmouth, March 7. Last Night came in 7 Men of War from Ireland, with several East India Ships, &c. This Evening Sir J. Leake, Sir J. Norris, and Sir E. Whitaker sail'd, with 12 English and 5 Dutch Men of War, and the Merchant-Ships under their Convoy.

London, March 10.

On Monday came Advice, that 6 large Men of War and as many Capers from Brest, were got into Dunkirk.
